In essence, the Organising Framework for Occupations (OFO) is a coded occupational classification system. It is the Department of Labour's key tool for identifying, reporting and monitoring skills demand and supply in the South African labour market.

Reporting and analysis of labour market trends

The purpose of the Organising Framework for Occupations (OFO) is to enable broad discussions on labour market trends based on a common language or classification of occupations.

These discussions can only be meaningful if various employment trends and statistics are reported and discussed in accordance with a coded classification system.

Job titles can never establish a common language for this purpose due to the variations associated with the allocation of job titles by employers. Persons with the same job title in different workplaces can in fact represent completely different occupations.

Occupations

An 'occupation', in terms of the OFO, represents a set of jobs that require the performance of similar tasks. In practical terms, an 'occupation' is a set of jobs whose main tasks are characterised by a high degree of similarity across a range of different employment situations.

Jobs

A 'job' represents the set of tasks performed by a person for an employer (including self-employment) in return for payment or profit.

Linking Jobs to Occupations

The OFO is not concerned with the JOB TITLE a workplace uses for a specific position. The 6 digit classification code is used for purposes of analysis and reporting. An effort must always be made to link a specific job title to the appropriate 6 digit classification code to ensure reliable and meaningful data

Please accept:

- The OFO does not and can never list all the different job titles used by employers in the agricultural sector.
- Not all jobs are included in the list of alternative or specialisation titles of occupations in the OFO.
- An occupation can include a range of jobs – persons employed at various job grades or NQF levels.
- Job titles can be very confusing. When matching a job title to the OFO, always read to descriptor and tasks to select the OFO link that describes the job best

Not all jobs are always listed specifically on the OFO – Some guidelines for linking such jobs

Guide for determining the correct OFO Code

Supervisors, Team Leaders and Foreman

The use of the titles team leader, induna, voorman, toesighouer, foreman, and many more, means different things for different employers.

The following is an effort to provide some guidelines for linking these jobs to OFO codes. It must not be seen as prescriptive or an effort to influence job titles used by employers.

Supervisors

- Supervisors plan, lead, direct, control persons and activities.
- Supervisors are generally linked to occupations at foreman or first line manager level
- Supervisors can be considered as the first job level of a person in training to become a foreman or manager
- Persons in a specific occupation (such as an artisan) receive additional training to supervise a group of artisans. In most situations they still work actively in their occupation, but also supervise the work of others.

Foreman

- Foreman often refers to persons with a technical or artisan background.
- They act as supervisors in the true sense of the word

Team Leaders

- Team Leaders lead teams but do not act as supervisors in the true sense
- They are mostly linked to an occupation at a lower level in the work structure

Link the job title used by your company to the key occupation they are employed in: For example

- Span Toesighouer, Induna, Team Leaders: link to 841501, Livestock Farm Worker/Assistant, if they are team leaders in a livestock farming environment (Workplaces may obviously still prefer to refer to such employees in terms of a job title they feel comfortable with as Supervisors)
- Farm Supervisor: link to 122204, Horticultural Farm Production Manager / Foreman if the person truly acts as a supervisor of horticulture farming activities.
- Maintenance Foreman: link to 323501 Millwright if the workplace employs a Millwright to act as a maintenance foreman

Key Questions when aligning your supervisors to OFO Codes

- Irrespective of the job title used by your company,
 - Do they act as supervisors or team leaders
 - If a team leader, in which occupation would they be employed before promotion to a team leader – use this occupation as the link
 - If a supervisor, to which occupation will the supervisor be promoted – consider this occupation as the link
 - If a supervisor or foreman of an occupation classified as a technician or trades worker – use the technical occupation or trade as the link.
 - The same principles are suggested for persons acting as supervisors in a clerical, administrative or sales related occupation

Please note that the OFO do provide specifically for a range of Foreman / Managers for specific occupations

Assistants

Assistants can be associated with just about every occupation on the OFO. The OFO lists assistants at occupational level for a range of occupations and also as alternative or specialised titles for many.

If a specific job title is not listed on the OFO, it is recommended that the same principles suggested for a supervisor or foreman of an occupation is applied.

Link the job title used by your company to the key occupation they are employed in: For example

- Assistant Branch Manager: link to 142101, Retail Manager if the person is an assistant manager of a retail branch
- Assistant Credit Manager: Link to 221101, Accountant (General) if the person employed as a assistant credit manager is an accountant
- Assistant Credit Manager: Link to 551101, Accounts Clerk if the person employed as a assistant credit manager is an accountants clerk
- Assistant Production Manager: Link to 133504, Operations Manager (Non Manufacturing) if this occupation closely resembles workplace

Consider assistant artisans not listed on the OFO:

- Assistant Welder: Link to 322303, Welder / Welder (First Class)
- Assistant Fitter and Turner: Link to 323202, Fitter and Turner

Other jobs not included on the OFO

General Workers

General workers in the farming sector should be linked to one of the occupations listed that starts with 841, Farm, Forestry and Garden Workers

General workers in the secondary agricultural industry should be linked to one of the many occupations listed under group 8, such as one of the occupations listed under 8311: Food and Beverage Factory Workers

Other jobs not included on the OFO

Quality Control and Assurance Related Jobs

Job in this category not listed on the OFO mostly relates to the occupational field that are used for the recruitment and employment of such persons. For example:

- A Food Technologist listed under 234202, Food and Beverage Scientist, is recruited for a specific quality position
- An Agricultural Technician (311101) is recruited for a specific quality position
- An Agricultural Scientist (234102) is recruited for a specific quality position

Other occupations not listed on the OFO

The same principles can be applied for linking many of the other jobs in workplaces not listed on the OFO. Many persons are employed in a specific job if they meet specific recruitment requirements.

Consider the following list randomly selected from the OFO:

233902	Agricultural Engineer
234505	Botanist
234701	Veterinarian
551201	Bookkeeper
261302	Developer Programmer
